Recent research by UnSinReLab@ shows that the "system intruder", the technical term for the family of computer viruses, macros, trojans and worms, is richer by a new species.

The small programs referred to by our specialists as "ants" have a social stumbling act similar to the ant.

A main program, called "the Queen," generates thousands of smaller programs called "workers" and sends them to the International Data Network.

The smaller descendants infest mainframe computers and send important data to the Queen. The ants use complex communication with each other, which is a sign of implemented artificial intelligence (AI) in the automaton level.

In experimental arrangements with the ants, a relational IQ of about 32,345 was measured in a shielded network with 1234 gflops computing power, an unusually high intelligence for System Intruder.

Not many ants have yet appeared in the data network. The current estimates are about 20 colonies with 100 workers each.

Countermeasures are still in the works.

LISTEN IHT BLACK PEOPLE !!!

We have come to make mud out of your brains for good !!!
We have increased the number of our unnecessary links to the infinite !!!
You have no chance to escape !!! As soon as you get up your computers, our links will fall over you !!!

"Killerlinks dead?!?"

Earth - The attack of the nonsensical killer links seems to have subsided.
As has been reported from several sources, the number of nonsensical links has decreased sharply, to the relief of all surfers.
Scientists explain the decline of the nonsensical links as a kind of "virus epidemic" that has now been absorbed by the network completely normal.
They also suspect that this has made the Internet "imun" against this type of virus, similar to how it works in the human immune system.

However, the Creditnet problem has not yet been solved because the virus does not show a recognizable structure.
The virus was logged into the International Creditnet by the hacking group "Kasimir", which was arrested last week. Its fractal course could not be reconstructed, nor could its coding sequence be reconstructed. The only one who could stop this madness, Armin Hotzenplotz, has disappeared without a trace.

Ups, I think I got lost....

Profile

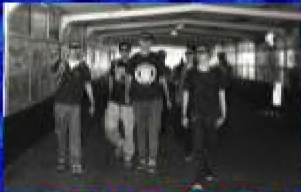

We are looking for:

Hotzenplotz, Armin , born on 54.17.1999, in Cologne.
He and his hacking group "Kasimir" have paralyzed international credit traffic by logging their "Virus P" into the international creditnet.
On his seizure, a reward of 250,000 credits has been offered by the international CreditBank.

Useful information should be sent to: <http://www.u.s.military.gov>

"KASIMIR!"

Moon - As we have just been told, the hacking group "KASIMIR" has been captured. The hackers who cracked the Enigma II Level pq4 key threatened to destroy international payments if their demands were not met. Tomorrow, their demands would have been due. However, the C.I.A. was able to track the bank details of the transactions and expose the perpetrators. At noon today, all members of "KASIMIR" were arrested in a spootric lightning operation.

Armin Holzenplotz

However, as unconfirmed sources have revealed, the head of the gang, Armin HoGnuplotz, is still fleeing. Despite their capture, it is not yet clear whether or not the attack of the P virus can be prevented. So the end is yet to come.

Uwa, I think I got lost...

WELCOME TO KASIMIR

The world now belongs to us!

- The Ultimatum
- The P virus
- The Prisoner Mr.qe324sdsxc and Hangar 52

The world now belongs to us!

Our Virus P has been specially specialized by specialists to hack into the creditnet and to decrypt and manipulate the credit data stored there.

Don't even try to stop him!

It contains some of the most sophisticated virus mechanisms and is immediately anchored in the system, making removal impossible.

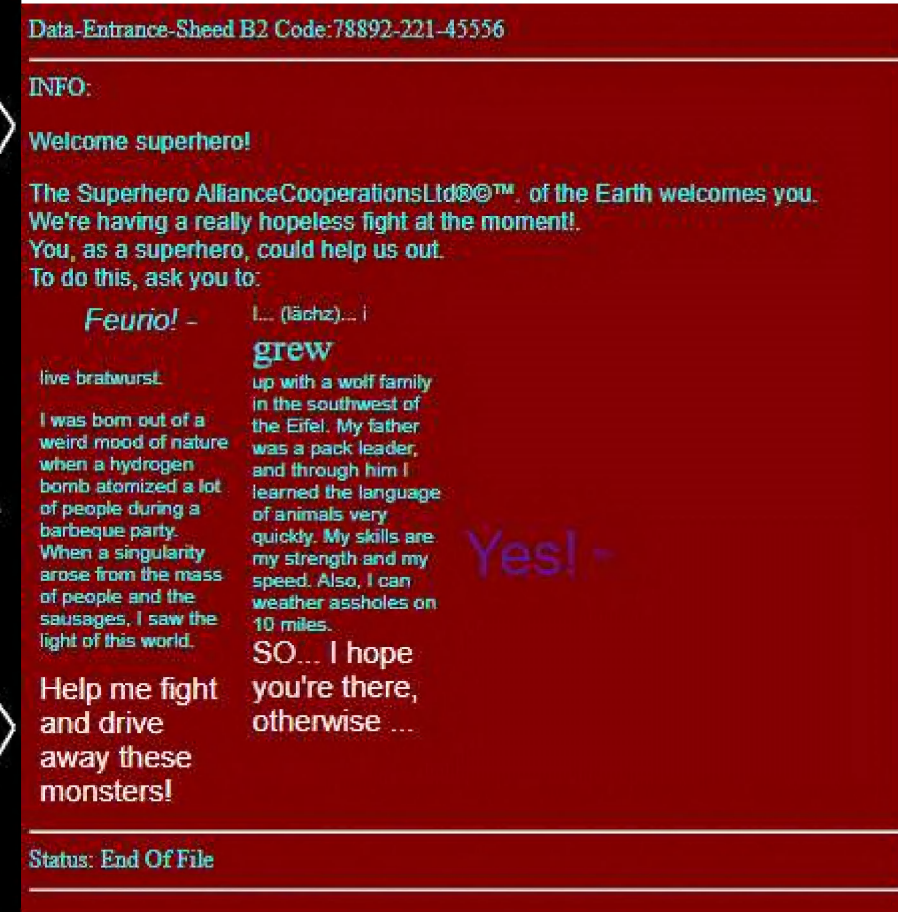

At the end of the next month, he is programmed to feed hundreds, even thousands, of false data and links into the Creditnet and wreak havoc there.

We have the only control structure to give him orders.

If our demands are not followed up, we will not stop P!

By the way, our virus P has nothing to do with the nonsensical links that are currently spreading wildly through the net.

"Will we all perish?"

Earth - Science has found that triggering a link can already have a viral function: By Trojan links, even links to ignition directions of atomic bombs are possible. There has even been a case of a false link at a road junction from Ohio-Michigan that switched all traffic lights to green. Consequences: 21547 dead during the Rush hour at the winter sales sale. And so far, the idiots of the super-would-be heroes have failed to stop the culprits. Some think that we are dealing here with a pure link invasion, not, as initially claimed, an invasion of any aliens. But the are mounting the talk

The rumour that the C.I.A. is behind the whole story has even been leaked from secret circles.
One thing is certain: the number of irritating links and weak-minded text increases in the minutes.
